Introduction

THE COURSE offers a comprehensive practice-orientated approach to surgical and anatomical learning for dentists and oral surgeons. The COURSE ensures participants receive a high-quality learning experience provided by recognised and international leaders in their field.

Our experienced lecturers Dr. Marcus Beschnidt and Dr. Dr. Rudolf Seemann will personally supervise the hands-on trainings, as well as share their personal tips and tricks based on their many years of clinical experience.

The curriculum covering four days is divided between theory and practice. Topics include understanding the differences between soft and hard tissue management, where course participants gain hands-on experience using fresh specimens on microsurgical techniques, micro suturing and surgical techniques used for "Hard Tissue Management".

All operations are demonstrated by expert lecturers using a high quality microscope via live feed on flat screen monitors.
